

THE SESSION WEEKLY

MINNESOTA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
VOLUME 3, NUMBER 1 January 31, 1986

HIGHLIGHTS

'Session Weekly'

The "Session Weekly" is part of the Minnesota House of Representatives public information service. Each week it includes: 1) highlights of House committee and floor action, 2) a list of committee and floor action on bills, 3) a list of bill introductions, and 4) an advance committee schedule. You may want to save each issue to trace action on bills.

Highlights of committee and floor action provide a general overview of what happened from Thursday (2 p.m.) to Thursday (2 p.m.).

Beginning next week, the listing of committee and floor action on bills will provide concise information so that you can follow particular bills. Because of time constraints, we don't index the "Session Weekly." Therefore, you may want to mark bill titles and/or House File (HF) numbers of special interest to you.

Coverage of committee action will tell you if a committee recommended a bill to pass; to pass as amended; recommended that a bill not pass; or rereferred it to another committee for further consideration.

Coverage of floor action will tell you what happens to a bill after it leaves a committee and appears on a calendar for action by the full House.

Bill introductions provide you with HF numbers, authors, committee assignments, and brief descriptions of bill contents.

The advance committee schedule gives you the information you need to attend committee meetings, all of which are open to the public.

For further help in following the Legislature, or for answers to general questions you may have, call the numbers in the left-hand column on this page.

Medical malpractice insurance

Doctors may see some relief from high medical malpractice insurance rates this legislative session. On Jan. 30, the Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee heard testimony on HF1764 which takes up the medical malpractice insurance problem.

"Our nation is facing a medical malpractice insurance crisis," said author Kathleen Blatz (IR-Bloomington). The increasing number of complaints and the amounts and awards of settlements has had a negative effect on the cost of insurance, Blatz told the committee. "Consequently, the health care market has been adversely affected."

According to Blatz, HF1764 would help reduce insurance rates by trying to lower the amounts of the awards and the frequency of litigation. One change would prevent an injured person from collecting from his insurer and the doctor's insurer.

Another would put a cap of $250,000 on non-economic damages such as pain and suffering. A third change would prohibit the injured person from collecting punitive damages.

The Minnesota House of Representatives Public Information Office is now in 175 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

Nothing herein is admissible as legal proof of legislative intent.

One provision would require the attorney for the plaintiff to file an affidavit saying an expert has reviewed the facts of the case and there are grounds for the complaint or time was too short to get a review. This provision aims to reduce the number of frivolous lawsuits, said Blatz.

The committee will hear the bill again on Feb. 5.

Farm relief

A farm relief package offering farmers some $22 million in interest subsidies for spring operating loans got full support from the Agriculture Committee Jan. 29.

Under the interest subsidy program, nearly the same as last year's program, the state would pay 40 percent and the lenders 10 percent of any interest subsidy on an operating loan up to $100,000. Farmers with a debt-to-asset ratio of more than 50 percent and who lenders feel are a good credit risk can apply for the loans. Applicants must also take an approved adult farm management course.

Critics of the 1985 program say it got off to a late start, and as a result, farmer and lender participation was low. Rep. K.J. McDonald (IR-Watertown), author of HF1775, says that early action should mean more participation.

Other provisions in the bill would:

- beef up the Family Farm Advocate Program by setting up procedures; increasing part-time advocates from 14 to 25; and outlining qualifications and duties of farm advocates;
- shift resources for the wage subsidy program so that more of the those funds go to distressed rural counties;

- suspend for 60 days, lenders actions to foreclose on or repossess farm property with a $5,000 or more value to allow mediators trained by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Services to help farm lenders and borrowers with refinancing, restructuring, or paying off the debt;
- allow farmers to pay their property taxes by Nov. 15 rather than Oct. 15 without penalty; and
- make a number of changes in the state income tax code.

Minnesota High School League

High school athletes could switch schools without giving up a year's eligibility and could play their sport freely during the summer under terms of a proposed bill the Education Committee discussed Jan. 29.

The bill, which limits the authority of the Minnesota State High School League on those issues, grew out of a task force study of rules for high school and amateur athletics.

The bill reduces league powers by giving students who haven't changed residence the right to transfer to another school and begin playing right away, if both school principals agree. It also adds a senator, house member, and average citizen to the high school league board; sets penalties for recruiting violations; and grants a grievance procedure and court review to students who feel they've been wronged.

Also, students could play their chosen sport outside school, without much restriction. Now, students can't play on summertime teams if most of the team members are on the school team.

Author Craig Shaver (IR-Wayzata) said the bill addresses specific complaints about the league because "they have not changed—at least to the degree that we would like to see—with the changing face of sports here in Minnesota."

But Rep. Ken Nelson (DFL-Mpls.) said, in the past, the Legislature always let the league be independent and he objected to what he called "top-down" intervention in its affairs.

Home health care

Rep. Tony Onnen (IR-Cokato) stepped out of his role as chair of the Health and Human Services Committee Jan. 28 to urge support for HF370, his bill to license the agencies or individuals who provide home health care to the elderly and disabled.

"Health care is becoming big business," Onnen said. He stressed the Legislature's responsibility to direct policy for vulnerable adults, particularly in light of recent reports about home-health-care abuse. His bill would make Minnesota the thirty-third state to license home health care.

THE SESSION WEEKLY

The Session Weekly is a publication of the Minnesota House of Representatives Public Information Office. During the 1986 Legislative Session, each issue reports daily House action from Thursday (2 p.m.) to Thursday (2 p.m.), lists bill introductions and advance committee schedules, and provides other information. The publication is free to interested constituents. Contact: Minnesota House of Representatives Public Information Office, 175 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155, (612) 296-2146.

Information Officer: Jean Steiner • Editor: Peg Hamerston • Associate Editor/Writer: Bonnie Kollodge • Assistant Editor/Writer: Lisa Lissimore • Art and Production Coordinator: Donna J. Lyons • Session Writers: Amy Gage, Beverly Geber, Susan Shepard Carlson • Bill Introductions & Committee Schedules: Terri Hudoba, Dorothy Sawyer, Terrie Gimpel.

Most committee debate centered on the bill's language and on its differences from SF51 (Berglin, DFL-Mpls.), a companion bill that, according to Onnen, would not centralize home-health-care services as effectively as HF370.

Rep. Karen Clark (DFL-Mpls.) asked that Onnen add the phrase "quality of care" wherever the bill referred to a patient's welfare, safety, or well-being. Rep. Lee Greenfield (DFL-Mpls.) said that because the bill centralizes services with county boards, it could conflict with each county's role of hiring pre-admission screeners.

The committee will take up the issue again to consider recommended changes to the bill.

Wastewater treatment plants

Private individuals could own wastewater treatment plants in Minnesota cities if a proposed privatization bill becomes law.

On Jan. 28, the Local and Urban Affairs Committee considered the proposal that lets cities sell existing wastewater treatment plants or persuade individuals to build and own new ones.

Author and committee chair, Don Valento (IR-Little Canada), said the privatization bill would give cities another way to deal with pressing Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) deadlines on wastewater treatment rules.

New owners would pay operating costs and—if the plant performs well—receive service fees from the city. Cities then would bill residents for the services, much as they do now.

Stanley Peskar of the League of Minnesota Cities agreed with privatization, but suggested that the process move faster. The state should encourage it by giving some funding priority to cities that choose privatization, he said.

Rep. Daniel Knuth (DFL-New Brighton) didn't object to privatization, but argued for close review of the facility, especially if public money goes into construction costs.

Guidelines for contractors

Labor-Management Relations Committee members dealt with affirmative action in the employment of women and other guidelines for contractors in state-awarded jobs at their Jan. 27 meeting.

Commissioner Linda Johnson of the Department of Human Rights (DHR) defined those guidelines for the committee. Recently, she said, the department temporarily dropped a requirement of two women on each job site because of complaints from members of the Association of General Contractors and others on this and other contractor-compliance rules.

Chair Jim Heap (IR-Plymouth) led a discussion on the question of whether the state should tell contractors of their non-compliance with state human rights laws before they bid on a job or after they get the job.

Charles Shaffer, director of the Small Business Association Office in the Department of Energy and Economic Development, said small businesses risk losing a bid while they work on complying with affirmative action quotas.

Johnson stressed that the DHR enforces rather than creates the Legislature's guidelines, and that one of her department's major objectives is to help businesses develop and enforce a human rights plan.

"Our rules are not static rules," she said. "They are dynamic." State agencies, by law, cannot award jobs over $50,000 to non-certified contractors. The department omits vendors who don't comply with human rights guidelines from the list of state-approved contractors.

Canterbury Downs

If you couldn't find a place to sit at Caterbury Downs last year, you'll welcome the news from the Regulated Industries and Energy Committee.

Canterbury Downs General Manager Stan Bowker told the committee Jan. 23, the racetrack will add 1,800 seats to the grandstand. He said they'll also double the length of the season and add quarterhorse and harness racing.

Bowker said they pushed their expansion schedule ahead because the track was so popular in its first year.

"To say the least," he said, "racing in Minnesota has gotten off to a great start. The enthusiastic response that we have received from the people of Minnesota is strong indication that we have only just begun in offering a new form of sports and entertainment for this area."

Bowker said thoroughbreds will race from April 25 through Labor Day, when quarterhorses will take the track until mid-September. Harness racing will finish the season, which ends Oct. 30.

INFO

How a bill becomes a law

● A bill is an idea for a new law, or an idea to abolish or change an existing law. Several thousand bills enter the legislative process in Minnesota each time the Legislature meets.

● Minnesota has a bicameral Legislature, or two groups of elected citizens—senators in the Senate—representatives in the House of Representatives—who study, discuss, and vote on bills, acting for the people of Minnesota. Bills begin their legislative journey in either the House or Senate, or both. To become a law, all bills must pass both the House and Senate and go to the governor for his approval and signature.

● The Idea

Anyone can propose an idea for a bill—an individual, a consumer group, corporation, professional association, a governmental unit, the governor. Most ideas come from members of the Legislature. The revisor of statutes puts the ideas into proper legal form as a bill for introduction. Only legislators can introduce bills into the process.

● Chief Author

The legislator who sponsors and introduces the bill in the Legislature is the chief author. The chief author's name appears on the bill with the bill's file number to identify it as it moves through the legislative process. The chief author may select other authors, whose names also appear on the bill—no more than five authors on a bill.

● Introduction in the legislature

When the author introduces a bill in the House, it gets a House File

(HF) number (HF264, for example), indicating the chronological order of the bill's introduction. In the Senate the bill gets a Senate File (SF) (SF224, for example). Each HF usually has a companion SF in the Senate. All revenue-raising bills must begin in the House.

● Committee consideration

At introduction, the bill has its first reading (the Minnesota Constitution requires three readings for all bills—on three separate days). The presiding officer of the House or Senate refers it to an appropriate standing committee for committee action. All committee meetings are open to the public.

A committee may: recommend passage of a bill in its original form; recommend passage after amendment by the committee; or make no recommendation, in which case a bill may die when the session ends. After acting on a bill, the committee sends a report to the House or Senate, stating its actions and recommendations.

● General orders

After adoption of the committee report in the House and Senate, the bill has its second reading and goes onto General Orders of the Day. In the Committee of the Whole, legislators discuss bills on General Orders. They may debate the issues, adopt amendments, and present arguments. They may vote to recommend that a bill "do pass," recommend postponement, or recommend further committee action.

● Calendar

The calendar is a list of bills the Committee of the Whole recommends to pass. At this point a bill has its third reading. Amendments to the bill must have the unanimous consent of the entire body. Legislators vote on it for the final time.

By committee recommendation, non-controversial bills can by-pass General Orders and go directly onto a Consent Calendar, usually passing without debate. Every bill requires a majority vote of the full membership of the House and Senate to pass.

● Conference committee

If the House and Senate do not agree on a bill, a conference committee of three to five senators, and an equal number of representatives, meets to reach an agreement. If both bodies then pass the bill in compromise form, it goes to the governor.

● Governor

When a bill arrives at the governor's office, he may: sign it, and the bill becomes law; veto it (return it, with a "veto message," stating his objections); pocket veto the bill (after final adjournment of the Legislature); exercise his right to line veto portions of appropriations bills.

If he does not sign or veto a bill within three days after receiving it, while the Legislature is in session, the bill becomes law.

BILL INTRODUCTIONS

Bill Introductions

Note: During the interim, the following bill introductions were filed with the speaker. In accordance with House Rule 9.5, the chief clerk's office gave them file numbers and the speaker unofficially referred them to standing committees. The bills get introduced and a first reading when the House reconvenes on Feb. 3, 1986. After that, committees can officially recommend action.
