Minnesota Film and TV is a 501(c)3 public–private partnership governed by a board of directors comprised of professionals from the Minnesota business community. Since 1983 our office has functioned as Minnesota’s film commission. Our mission is to advance Minnesota’s economy and enhance its robust cultural environment by promoting and supporting the state’s production industry.

During the 87th legislative session Minnesota Film and TV was allocated $1,000,000 for FY12 and FY13 from the Legacy Amendment’s Arts and Cultural Heritage Fund, MN Laws, 2011, 1st Special Session, Chapter 6, Articles 4 and 5. The appropriation of $500,000 in FY2012 and $500,000 in FY2013 is split between grants to Minnesota residents to create film or television productions that promote Minnesota’s cultural heritage, and for the film production jobs program (Snowbate) under Minnesota statutes, section 116U.26. This appropriation is available until June 30, 2015.

In FY2013, Minnesota Film and TV, in consultation with Independent Feature Project/ Minnesota, was fortunate enough to receive an additional $600,000 in funds for a new competitive film production incentive program. This appropriation is available until June 30, 2014.

Minnesota Film and TV is pleased to provide the following annual report on the programs funded with Legacy dollars.

The Minnesota Film Production Jobs (Snowbate) Program
Contract 37842/300-489
$500,000 in funding for the contract period (7/1/11-6/30/15)
plus $103,289 reallocated to Snowbate from unused Minnesota Filmmakers Legacy Grant Fund money as approved by the Department of Administration on 12/28/12

Snowbate is a reimbursement of up to 20% of qualifying Minnesota production costs available to producers of Feature Films, Television Pilots, Documentaries, Post Production and Internet programs for those categories of production. The program is designed to stimulate and support film and TV production in Minnesota, with the highest percentage of reimbursement (20%) reserved for productions that most closely align with ACHF Guidelines and Principles.

FTEs and Costs

MN Film and TV staff FTEs (1/1/14-6/30/14)	0.004
Actual Direct Support Cost for Q3 and Q4	$327
Office of Grants Management Fiscal Agency Fee	$3,000

Measurable Outcomes

The Snowbate Program's impact and outcomes are based on data tracking of the total number of projects reimbursed and the total number of full-time equivalent jobs created (calculated using the Legacy reporting formula) in the project period. We also track the total production dollars spent by Snowbate incentive recipients in Minnesota.

Since July 1, 2011, six projects have been certified by the Snowbate program. To date, all six projects have received Snowbate reimbursement.

Breakdown of Certified Projects by category to date

Feature Films

Death to Prom: Rene and Frankie, two best friends, make the best of going to high school by dreaming up high-fashion photo shoots and bribing their siblings to model for them. Rene loves his fashion magazines and designing clothes. Frankie lives for her camera and punk rock. The drama they dream up in their fashion shoots becomes very real when they end up fighting over their classmate Sasha, a shy soccer player with a soft spot for poems by Pushkin. Death to Prom (a McKnight Screenwriting Fellowship & Francis Ford Coppola's Zoetrope Screenplay Competition Finalist) is a bizarre love triangle loaded with enough glamour and attitude for "Project Runway" & Vogue, but with enough heart to make Molly Ringwald bite her lip with anticipation.

Stay Then Go

Stay Then Go is about a woman, Marion Baird, event planner extraordinaire. She cares about brides, grooms, 50th wedding anniversaries, ice sculptures, bar and bat mitzvahs, and unrefrigerated truffles. Her husband, Dick Baird, a studio photographer, has a distinct knack for documenting an exalted version of normal. Teeth never looked so white, ruffles so starched; shiny shoes, shiny hair, shiny pets. They have a little child, Eddie, which oddly rocks and strains their careful world. They discover that he has autism. For Marion, this changes her career, her marriage, her life – inexorably. As Eddie gets older, a glimmer of a lovely identity emerges for him, that of a young artist. But just as he, (and Marion) begins to envision an independent adult life, an unlikely event occurs, altering their course forever.

TV Pilots

Documentaries

Twilight Tear: Tucked away in a small airplane hangar in Granite Falls, sits a piece of American history, the "Twilight Tear." This documentary taps into the Herculean efforts of "warbird" enthusiasts who devote their lives to lovingly restoring the aircraft of WWII.

Electropolis 3D

From the spellbinding drama of a widespread grid catastrophe to the brilliant technologies forging a more reliable and efficient future, Electropolis 3D is the incredible story of our quest to reimagine and reinvent our entire energy ecosystem.

Post Production

The Flightline is a fast moving 30-minute aviation magazine TV show that brings the viewer into the cockpits of some of the world's greatest aircraft.

In May, 2014, an amendment was requested and approved to transfer the remaining funds from Contract #37842/300-489 into Contract #59561/300-1956 due to the fact that Snowbate funds had been allocated from the general fund at a higher rate of reimbursement to filmmakers. The funds that were transferred are being offered in Summer 2014 as part of the Minnesota Filmmakers Legacy Reimbursement: Cycle 4 Finishing Funds.

Legacy Arts and Cultural Heritage Production Reimbursement Program (LACH)
Contract 53110/300-1419
$600,000 (7/1/12-6/30/14)

The Legacy Arts and Cultural Heritage Production Reimbursement Program (LACH) is a new competitive incentive program established to support the creation of feature films and documentaries in Minnesota by professional, experienced mid-career Minnesota-based filmmakers. The program is administered by MN Film and TV in consultation with IFP MN.

The RFP for the LACH Production Reimbursement Program was posted October 26, 2012 and the Round 1 review of proposals took place on December 15. Five projects applied and four were deemed eligible. Three of those projects were named as finalists and continued on to Round 2 judging. All three projects were selected to receive production reimbursement funds and were announced on February 4, 2013.

Andy Awes, narrative feature, Lawnmower Mafia $175,000
Enter Thomas, a ten-year-old Minneapolis "nordeaster." Thomas sees green in the rolling green lawns of his neighborhood and figures it's turf worth protecting. He enlists his big brother's friends and organizes the Lawnmower Mafia. What is this enterprising little gang of kids' formula for success? It's 90% hustle and hard work and 10% intimidation. Sabotage and threats definitely keep their competition away. However, the kids rethink their tactics when they run afoul of grownup bad guys with mob connections and learn crime doesn't pay.

In August, 2013, as part of a scheduled project progress update, Andy Awes notified MN Film and TV that he was withdrawing from the grant program due to a change in the project's overall funding status that would affect his ability to begin production as scheduled. This delay in scheduling would make it impossible to deliver a finished film before contract expiration.

Patrick Coyle, narrative feature, The Public Domain $175,000
Four fictional characters are trying to get home in one way or another when their lives are forever altered due to the I-35W bridge collapse. One fateful night five years later these same individuals are drawn to The Public Domain, a bar that has lived in the shadow of the bridge for decades. That night is the feast of St. Casimir, the Patron Saint of Poland, and the biggest party of the year at this NE neighborhood dive where desire, guilt, ambition and fear are served up with pierogi, Polish vodka and, hopefully, a modicum of redemption.

The Public Domain was finished in May, 2014 and the filmmaker has received reimbursement in full.

William Eigen, narrative feature, The Jingle Dress $175,000
At its heart The Jingle Dress is an immigrant story. An Ojibwe family moves from the White Earth Indian Reservation in northern Minnesota to the Phillips neighborhood of Minneapolis. We follow the Red Elk family as they discover a new culture and through their experiences and unvarnished perspective we are able to view our own Minnesota culture with fresh eyes, as well as gain insight into an ancient, indigenous society.

The Jingle Dress is completed and has received reimbursement in full. It premiered at the Minneapolis/St. Paul International Film Festival this past April.

Round 1 Review Panelists:

Jeff Forester studied writing with Ken Kesey at the University of Oregon, and with a class co-wrote and published Caverns on Viking Press in 1989. His second book, Forest for the Trees, an ecological history of Minnesota's Boundary Waters, came out in 2005, won the Choice Critics Award, and was a finalist in the Minnesota Book Awards. His first sale, Flashpoint, (Jim Berg and Joe Forte) was with Lorenzo Di Bonaventura (Transformers, Constantine) at Paramount. His second film, A Lifetime in Heat (Jim Berg, Joe Forte) is in development with Shampoo 160 LLC. He recently worked as Associate Producer on the Emmy Award winning tpt documentary Transplant: A Gift for Life.

Tom Hoch, President/CEO of Hennepin Theatre Trust, oversees the Orpheum, State, Pantages and New Century Theatres. Currently, he is involved with a variety of partners on the creation of a 'cultural district' centered on Hennepin Avenue, spanning from the Walker Art Center to the Mississippi Riverfront. Tom also serves on the boards of the Minneapolis Downtown Council, the Minneapolis Downtown Improvement District, the Animal Humane Society and Planned Parenthood of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Susan Marks is an award-winning, independent documentary filmmaker and writer. Her latest film is the feature documentary, Of Dolls & Murder (2011) about dollhouse crime scenes, narrated by legendary filmmaker, John Waters. Marks is also an author of history and pop culture, including Finding Betty Crocker (Simon & Schuster 2005) and, most recently, In the Mood for Munsingwear. (Minnesota Historical Society Press 2011) Her latest project includes several screenplays, teleplays and two new doll and murder-related documentaries: Murder in a Nutshell and Inside the Speakeasy Dollhouse.

Robb Mitchell is founder, producer and administrator of film and screenwriting workshop Screenlabs beginning in 1990. Over a ten year period he also produced staged script reading series at Ritz Theater, Illusion Theater and at the Dowling Studio, at the Guthrie Theater. He has been involved with the professional development of writers and scripts for more than 30 years. His involvement with literary talent and development goes back to the early 1980s at the Eugene O'Neill Playwright Conference, The American Place Theater, and Playwright's Horizons in New York.

Beth Schoeppler is managing director of the Loft Literary Center. Her career spans more than 25 years working in support of non-profits, primarily arts, education and public broadcasting. A generalist, her expertise includes program planning and management, evaluation, finance, development and communications.

Jason Wallace is a Twin Cities based independent producer/director/editor. His narrative short and feature work has been broadcast nationally on IFC, ABC Family, and the Lifetime Movie Network. He founded Line Road Pictures in 2005 to develop and produce micro budget films, as well as provide consultation services to filmmakers in need of financing and production assistance.

Round 2 Review Panelists:

Hafed Bouassida graduated with a Ph.D. from the famed Prague Film School, FAMU. He subsequently produced, directed and wrote more than forty productions: feature, documentaries, news, ads, corporate, audiovisual and multiscreen programs, in Europe, The Middle East, Africa and The U.S. After teaching at Film in The Cities in St. Paul, he joined the MCTC Cinema Division in 1992 to teach Cinema Production, Cinema History and Screenwriting. In 1996, he developed the new award winning Screenwriting program at MCTC; he currently chairs the program, he is President of the Screenwriters Workshop and chair of Edina Arts Center Board while developing his own screenplays and acting as script consultant and panel member to different local and national competitions, foundations and grant organizations such as the Jerome Foundation, the MN State Arts Board and the Twin Cities International Film Fest.

Bill Cooper has been involved with the video, television and film business in the Twin Cities for over 25 years. He has a degree in Mass Communications from St. Cloud (MN) State University. Although he works primarily as an actor, he has produced and/or directed a dozen short and feature films and is currently the Managing Director of the Twin Cities Film Fest.

Kirk Hokanson is a creative and visionary commercial producer with dynamic background in content production with expertise in identifying and capitalizing upon market opportunities to develop new business and ensure competitive advantage.

Anne Kaplan is the editor of Minnesota History, the quarterly magazine of the Minnesota Historical Society. She has a PhD in Folklore and Folklife from the University of Pennsylvania and has published on ethnicity, food traditions, and topics in Minnesota history.

Mary Rockcastle is the author of the novels In Caddis Wood and Rainy Lake, both published by Graywolf Press. She is the director of The Creative Writing Programs at Hamline University and the executive editor of Water~Stone Review.

Norah Shapiro worked as a public defender for over a decade before making her way to the world of filmmaking. Her first short, A Sacred Heart, won the Emerging Filmmaker Award from the Minnesota History Center and aired on Twin Cities Public Television (TPT) in 2006. Her feature If You Dare premiered at the 2009 Hot Springs Documentary Festival, screened at the 2009 Mpls/St. Paul International Film Fest, aired on TPT in 2011, and has been collected by universities and libraries around the US and Canada. She has received grants for her current film Miss Tibet: Beauty in Exile (now in post production) from the Jerome Foundation, the Minnesota State Arts Board, and received the 2012 McKnight Filmmaking Fellowship. Previously, she has served as a juror for the Minnesota State Arts Board and the Frozen River Film Festival.

As a result of Andy Awes' withdrawal from the program, funds in the amount of $175,000 became available. In order for these funds to be utilized by the filmmaking community, Minnesota Film and Television introduced LACH: Cycle 2 for works in active pre production or production.

The RFP for the LACH: Cycle 2 Production Reimbursement Program was posted September 23, 2013. MN Film and Television and IFP program administrators reviewed all projects for Legacy alignment and scored projects accordingly. Projects achieving 50 points moved on to the full review panel on November 23. Two of the three eligible projects were selected to receive funding and announced on November 25, 2013.

William Eigen, narrative feature, The Jingle Dress $75,000
John Red Elk hears from his relatives down in Minneapolis that his Uncle Norton is dead and vows to go to the big city to find out what really happened to him. At its heart, The Jingle Dress is an immigrant story of an Ojibwe family that moves from the rural White Earth Indian reservation in northern Minnesota, to the heart of urban Minneapolis' Phillips neighborhood. We follow the Red Elk family as they discover this new culture and through their experience and unvarnished perspective as we are able to view our own Minnesota culture with fresh eyes, as well as gain insight into their ancient, indigenous society.

Maya Washington, documentary, Through the Banks of the Red Cedar $100,000
A scholarship to Michigan State University allowed filmmaker Maya Washington's father, wide-receiver Gene Washington, to leave his small segregated town of Laporte, TX and contribute greatly to college football and Minnesota Vikings history as one of the "50 Greatest Vikings of All Time." After retiring from the NFL, Gene Washington became a trailblazer in the Minnesota business community, creating partnerships between corporations, colleges, and universities throughout the country to connect students of color with employment opportunities in Minnesota. This film reveals the ways that scholarships impacted the lives of players of color, who were literally dropped into an integrated environment for the first time, and their white teammates at the height of the Civil Rights Movement in America and the impact on the present generation 50 years later.

Both projects have fulfilled their contractual obligations and are complete. Both projects have received reimbursement in full.

LACH: Cycle 2 Review Panelists

Daniel Pierce Bergin is Senior Producer & Partnership Manager for Twin Cities Public Television. His notable productions include regional Emmy-winners North Star: Minnesota's Black Pioneers; Lowertown: The Rise of an Urban Village; Cass Gilbert: Standing the Test of Time; and Slavery By Another Name: Behind the Scenes. His documentary, 'Literature & Life: The Givens Collection' was named the 'Best History Documentary' at the Prized Pieces International Black Film Festival. His documentary

In addition to long-form documentary work, Bergin received a regional Emmy award for 'Legacy Letters,' a PSA series about celebrating and protecting Minnesota's natural, historical, and cultural heritage. The filmmaker's short narrative films have screened at the American Film Institute, the Chicago International Children's Film Festival, and the Hollywood Black Film Festival. In the 1990s, Daniel Bergin produced the ground breaking 'Don't Believe the Hype,' tpt's Emmy award winning youth media program. The Minneapolis native and University of Minnesota graduate has served as a director on the boards of several community media organizations including Intermedia Arts, St. Paul Neighborhood Network, Hennepin Theatre Trust, and IFP MN. Daniel is an adjunct instructor at St. Cloud State University. He has been recognized as a MN State Arts Board Fellow, a 2003 Twin Cities Business Journal's "40 under 40", a City Pages Artist of the Year, and was awarded a Bush Leadership Fellowship for his work in community media

Julie Hartley has been production managing and producing entertainment and media projects for the past thirty years. Her career began at Twin Cities Public Television (PBS) where she was the Production Manager for national programs. The majority of programs she managed were multi-camera, live event programs. Julie also managed the Prairie Home Companion series live via satellite to the Disney Channel. She then worked for the Australian Broadcasting Corporation in the TV Features Department. As a freelance production manager, she worked on Comic Relief, a documentary in Northern Ireland and several corporate films shot all over the United States. Julie made the leap to independent feature film production in 1988 with the production of Old Explorers. She produced World and Time Enough, With or Without You, Woolly Boys and Brothers Three: An American Gothic. She worked as production manager on several studio features including My Cousin Vinny, A Simple Plan (2nd Unit), Joe Somebody, Lackawanna Blues, Robert Altman's Prairie Home Companion, and Out of the Furnace starring Christian Bale, Casey Affleck, Forrest Whittaker and Woody Harrelson. She worked as the Line Producer on Dave Barry's Complete Guide to Guys, Smother, Thin Ice, for Minneapolis production company, Werc Werk Works, In The Blood shot in Puerto Rico and most recently Basmati Blues shot in India. In 2002, Julie started the Sean Francis Foundation, a non-profit company dedicated to promoting excellence in PSA creation and production as well as mentoring young people in the craft of filmmaking. All in all, Julie has traveled extensively and worked on over thirty feature films and many more television programs. She has several projects in development and manages to keep busy with commercials and other related projects.

Mariko Yoshimura-Rank

Since graduating with a film production and theory degree in 2010, Mariko has worked with documentary and narrative filmmakers to develop and create content. Her involvement has ranged from working in a rental house to shooting, editing and producing both work of her own and assisting the work of others. She is currently part of the team at Werc Werk Works, a Minneapolis-based production company. At Werc Werk Works, Mariko has been a part of the Thin Ice and Darling Companion productions. She currently acts as the CEO's executive assistant and the company's festivals and events liaison.

The Minnesota Filmmakers Legacy Reimbursement: Finishing Funds 2013 (LEG 2) is a competitive reimbursement program established with Arts and Cultural Heritage Funds during Minnesota's 87th legislative session. The program was created to support Minnesota filmmakers who are seeking finishing or completion funds for new narrative features or long-form documentaries that align with Arts and Cultural Heritage Fund priorities. $240,000 was offered in finishing fund reimbursement.

The RFP for the Minnesota Filmmakers Legacy Reimbursement was posted May 13, 2013 and the Round 1 review of proposals took place on August 3, 2013. Nine projects applied and seven were deemed eligible. Four of the eligible projects were selected as finalists and continued on to Round 2 judging on October 5, 2013. All four projects were selected to receive finishing funds and were announced on October 7, 2013.

Dominic Howes, documentary, Robert Bly: A Thousand Years of Joy
Robert Bly: A Thousand Years of Joy is a comprehensive film portrait of Minnesotan Bly that presents his many engagements with American culture as outstanding poet, groundbreaking publisher, pioneering translator of world poetry, political activist and penetrating social critic.

Al Milgrom, documentary, The Dinkytown Uprising
The Dinkytown Uprising is the story of the unprecedented two-month occupation of the Dinkytown neighborhood at the edge of the University of Minnesota campus from March through May 1970.

Mike Scholtz, documentary, Wicker Kittens
Wicker Kittens documents the world of competitive jigsaw puzzling. Although many people remain unaware of this unique sub-culture, the St. Paul Winter Carnival hosts the country's largest jigsaw puzzle contest every January here in Minnesota.

Wicker Kittens is completed and the filmmaker has fulfilled all contractual obligations. The project has been reimbursed in full. The film premiered at the SXSW Film Festival in March and continues to receive recognition.

Norah Shapiro, documentary, Miss Tibet: Beauty in Exile
Miss Tibet: Beauty in Exile follows a Tibetan-American teen from Minnesota as she travels to the Indian Himalayas to compete in the Miss Tibet Beauty Pageant on an unlikely journey toward her political and cultural awakening.

Miss Tibet is completed and has met contractual obligations. The filmmaker received the first reimbursement at the time of picture lock in March and received reimbursement in full in July, 2014.

The Minnesota Filmmakers Legacy Reimbursement: Pre-Pro/Production Fund (LEG 3) is a competitive reimbursement program established with Arts and Cultural Heritage Funds during Minnesota's 87th legislative session. The program was created to support Minnesota filmmakers who are seeking funds for new narrative features or long-form documentaries works in progress that align with Arts and Cultural Heritage Fund priorities. $155,150 was offered for pre-pro/production reimbursement.

The RFP for the Minnesota Filmmakers Legacy Reimbursement was posted January 6, 2014. The full panel review took place on May 3, 2014. Three projects applied and were deemed eligible. Two of the eligible projects were selected to receive reimbursement funds and were announced on May 5, 2014.

Michael McIntee, documentary, The Marriage Equality Movie (working title)
The Marriage Equality Movie is a weave of personal stories and the chronology of the historic political fight to prevent Minnesota from becoming the 31st state in a row to ban same-sex marriage...and then become the first to so quickly pivot and embrace marriage equality. Emotional stories intermixed with the political drama make up this documentary about how love and political courage changed public opinion.

Norah Shapiro, documentary, Minnesota 13: From Grain to Glass
Minnesota 13: From Grain to Glass explores the intersection of a little-known history of an elite moonshine produced in the heart of Minnesota during Prohibition and the modern-day attempts of an organic family farm and micro-distillery to resuscitate the brand as a premium whiskey.
