The Current Biennium – FY 2016-17

Projected general fund spending in health and human services is down $130 million. Spending in elementary and secondary education is up $11 million compared to the November 2015 estimates.

Next Biennium – FY 2018-19

The February 2016 forecast projects a positive balance of $1.184 billion for the FY 2018-19 biennium. This compares to a projection of a positive $2.047 billion balance projected in the November 2015 forecast. Changes from November are illustrated below.

FY 2018-19 General Fund Changes From November 2015
Change (Decrease) in Revenues	- $898 million
Change (Decrease) in Expenditures	36 million

Major revenue changes from the November 2015 forecast estimates include a decrease of $517 million in projected income tax revenue, a decrease of $282 million in sales tax revenue, and a decrease of $123 million in corporate tax revenue. There are no major expenditure changes from the November 2015 forecast.

These expenditure projections for FY 2018-19 include no general adjustment for inflation. A few expenditure programs do include inflation because that adjustment is specified in law. Adding an estimated amount to all expenditures for inflation at the consumer price indicator (CPI) amounts would add approximately $1.72 billion to the spending amounts.
